Dear Parents and Carers,

We would like to kindly ask for your support by ensuring that children do not bring squishy toys into school.

While we understand that these toys are popular and enjoyable for many children, we have recently experienced a number of issues with them during the school day. In particular, some squishies have burst when squeezed too firmly, resulting in their contents leaking onto children's skin and their clothing.

In addition, there is often uncertainty about the materials and substances contained within these toys. As we are unable to verify the contents or safety of all items brought from home, we feel it is best to avoid bringing them into school altogether.

Our priority is to maintain a safe, clean and focused learning environment for all children. We would therefore be grateful if squishy toys could be kept at home and not brought into school, unless specifically requested as part of a school activity.

Thank you for your understanding and continued support.

Yours sincerely,

Julian Rose and Jon Warrener
